IN:SITE 2017

a festival of graduate creativity

Opportunity for BA Graduates and
MA Postgraduates

Craftspace, returns to Birmingham Cathedral Square for the seventh year with In:Site, a festival of site-specific and co-created work created by recent graduates.

In:Site provides an opportunity for selected applied arts graduates to create temporary, bespoke public artworks.

Working outdoors within the park, each graduate has a day to make their creative intervention on-site, turning the making process into a performance. The daily making performances, sometimes participatory, are intended to gradually fill the square with installations.

Past commissions have included casting jewellery from cracks in paving slabs and contemporary lace pieces on trees inspired by tracking people's movement around the park. Participatory activities invite the public to socially interact, converse with each other and engage with the process of making.

In:Site presents new craft in unexpected contexts, challenges perceptions about craft and promotes emerging trends.

What's involved?

- Festival runs 4th-8th September 2017
- £150 commission award plus materials
- Travel expenses paid
- Up to 15 commission opportunities
- Open to 2017 graduates and 2016 post graduates
- Selection panel of industry professionals
- Work will be on show for the duration of the festival
- Elements of the artwork can be prepared in advance of the festival but artists must produce the majority of the artwork on-site over the course of a day
- Deadline for proposals submission: 14th July 2017
